

Preamble

Programmers need to document their work. The preamble is where you begin learning that process.

In every Python py file you submit for this course you need to insert the following preamble at the beginning of each of your programming source files.

The pound symbol (#) denotes a comment in Python. Comments in programming languages are ignored by compilers.

```
#!/usr/bin/env python3
```

```
#Name: <your full name here>
```

```
#Date: <date created>
```

```
#Project: <project name and description here>
```

Failure to place a preamble in your files will result in points being subtracted from your project grade.
